@NinaGinsberg

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF COUNTRY

Griffith University acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of the land on which we are meeting and pays respect to the Elders, past and present, and extends that respect to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

The Yugarabul, Yuggera, Jagera and Turrbal peoples.

Write & Improve: Free writing feedback

The screenshot shows the Cambridge English Write & Improve website. The header includes the Cambridge English logo and the text 'Write & Improve'. A large graphic features a woman with glasses working on a laptop, with a large white number '8' and a blue arrow pointing upwards. The main text reads: 'Improve your writing fast. It's free.' Below this is a list of four steps: 1) Practise writing English, 2) Get your grade in seconds, 3) Look at the feedback and make changes, and 4) Keep improving! A small note states: 'Write & Improve is a free tool for learners of English that marks writing in seconds. It is provided in association with Cambridge English (part of the University of Cambridge).' A 'Start Practising Now' button is visible. At the bottom, it says 'Automatic grades and feedback for English writing'.

ABOUT PHRASEBANK

The Academic Phrasebank is a general resource for academic writers. It aims to provide you with examples of some of the phraseological 'nuts and bolts' of writing organised according to the main sections of a research paper or dissertation (see the top menu). Other phrases are listed under the more general communicative functions of academic writing (see the menu on the left). The resource should be particularly useful for writers who need to report their research work. The phrases, and the headings under which they are listed, can be used simply to assist you in thinking about the content and organisation of your own writing, or the phrases can be incorporated into your writing where this is appropriate. In most cases, a certain amount of creativity and adaptation will be necessary when a phrase is used. The items in the Academic Phrasebank are mostly content neutral and generic in nature; in using them, therefore, you are not stealing other people's ideas and this does not constitute plagiarism. For some of the entries, specific content words have been included for illustrative purposes, and these should be substituted when the phrases are used. The resource was designed primarily for academic and scientific writers who are non-native speakers of English. However, native speaker writers may still find much of the material helpful. In fact, recent data suggest that the majority of users are native speakers of English. More about Academic Phrasebank.

This site was created by John Morley. If you could spare just two or three minutes of your time, I would be extremely grateful for any feedback on Academic Phrasebank: Please click here to access a very short questionnaire. Thank you.

Learning English: development and diversity

N Mercer, J Swann - 1996 - content.taylorfrancis.com

Dennis Bancroft is a lecturer in psychology in the School of Education at the Open University. For the School's Centre for Human Development and Learning, he has written on children's cognitive and language development and edited a book on some of the implications of work in developmental psychology for the lives of children. His current research investigates the development of children's ability to reason about the temporal concepts of order and duration.
